Film capacitors are used in electromagnetic interference (EMI) suppression and as safety capacitors (Classes X and Y). While ceramic capacitors offer better dv/dt capabilities, film capacitors are good (with a maximum value of 2200 V/µs) making them suited for use in snubber circuits Im capacitors also have low equivalent ...

Film capacitors have a long shelf and service life, and are very reliable, with a very low average failure rate. They have low ESR (Equivalent Series Resistance), low self-inductance (ESL), and as a result very low dissipation factors. They can be made to withstand voltages in the kilovolt range and can provide very high surge current pulses.

Film Capacitor is one of the most popular and widely used capacitors. These possess a difference in their properties of dielectric. In the modern type of film capacitor, there is the "direct electrical connection" establishment with the electrodes that are present on both the windings. This keeps the path of the current to the electrode [...]
