In South Africa, the green energy transition is well and truly underway, albeit quiet and gradual. According to the International Energy Association (IEA), coal is still South Africa's mainstay and the most industrialised nation on the continent has a lot of work to do to wean itself away from the natural resource - which fuels 70% of installed capacity.

The project will deliver approximately 150,000 megawatt hours annually, enough to power about 65,000 South African homes with clean energy.
